Personal Profile

I am Harsh and I am currently a Second-Year Engineering Student. A Computer Engineering undergraduate with an analytical mindset and strong interests to work in an environment that provides generous opportunities for learning. I regularly take Coursera and Udemy courses to keep myself enthralled and updated. I also love Data Structures and Algorithms, the crux of CS and parallelly learn it along with my side-projects. In my freshman year, I did front-end web development. In my sophomore year, I am doing competitive programming, web development along with App development.
